

VALENTINO, FILM STAR, DIED DURING NOON HOUR

CHAS. ELIOT
OF HARVARD
DIED SUNDAY"Grand Old Man" of Educators, Died of Advanced Years

Northeast Harbor, Maine, Aug. 28. —(AP)—Charles William Eliot, Harvard's "grand old man", and America's first citizen, died Sunday at the age of 92, to the president emeritus of Harvard university, who had been its president for forty years prior to his retirement at the age of 75, and whose outspoken ideas on public affairs commanded international attention and respect. He died peacefully at the home where he had spent the summer for years. His son, the Rev. Samuel A. Eliot of Cambridge, Mass., was with him. He had been feeble all summer and confined to the house though up till a few years ago.

Until recently he had conducted a life-long habit of giving views on public questions. He was in his nineties when he took issues with Dr. Murray Butler, president of Columbia university, on the merits of prohibition. Dr. Eliot revealed that he had become a teetotaler at the age of 38 and praised the Volstead act.

Funeral at Harvard
There will be funeral services here tomorrow and in Appleton chapel, Harvard University, Wednesday. Born in Boston in the administration of General Jackson, he became president of Harvard at the age of 35 and lived to survive all but two of the 28 presidents of the United States who were his contemporaries.

His administration was featured by development of elective system which has since been adopted extensively by other colleges.

His views were sought on many questions.

During the war he maintained "the hope of the world lies in complete cooperation between the British empire and the United States."

He was an ardent foe of liquor and predicted there would be no modification of the Volstead act "in the wrong direction."

His stand on the immigration question was summed up in a speech as follows:

"We were all foreigners a little while ago."

Among educators Dr. Eliot, for forty years president of Harvard University and president emeritus until his death, held a worldwide reputation as a grand old man of their profession, but his prominence extended so far beyond educational circles that he was often spoken of here and abroad as "America's first citizen."

He was identified with practically every economic or social question brought forward in the past thirty years, writing and speaking so fearlessly that he was the center of as many storms of controversy and violent personal attacks as the thought he held public office.

Chosen to the presidency at Harvard in his 35th year, he was the youngest college president in the country. He had, when he resigned in his 75th year, held to office longer than the combined terms of his five predecessors—Hill, Felton, Walker, Sparks and Everett.

Had College Diploma
He was the son of Samuel A. Eliot of Cambridge, Mass., who was treasurer of Harvard. He was born in Boston, March 20, 1834, and graduated from Harvard in 1853. In college he stood among the first in his class, and was an oarsman in the varsity crew in the days when college crews rowed in heavy cedar barges beautifully fitted up with cushions. His predilection for chemistry and mathematics, and he was so successful in the former that at the age of 24 he became a professor of chemistry at Harvard, in preference to accepting $5,000 a year as chemist for a manufacturing concern in Lowell. He was

MRS. WILLIAM STONER, ACTIVE IN CHURCH AFFAIRS IN POLO, IS CALLED BY MAKER SUNDAY MORN

(Telegraph Special Service)
Polo, Aug. 23—Mrs. William Stoner, a resident of Polo for many years and an active worker in the Methodist Episcopal church of this city, died at her home here at 6 o'clock Sunday morning, death resulting from nephritis and heart trouble, with which she had suffered for nearly a year, but which had not confined her to her bed until the last few days of her life.

Funeral services will be held at the home at 2 o'clock Tuesday afternoon and at the M. E. church at 2:30, Rev.

Harry C. Brown, officiating, and with burial at Fairmount.

Susan Yeckel was born in Pennsylvania March 14, 1855 and was married to William Stoner forty-five years ago. She is survived by her husband; one son, Arthur of Polo; four daughters, Mrs. Lydia Frye of Shannan, Mrs. Gertrude Cunningham of Waterloo, Ia., Mrs. Emma Fletcher of Polo and Mrs. Etta Miller of Duncan, Ia.; four brothers, Jefferson Yeckel of Ames, Ia., John of Polo, Edwin of Barrington and William of Chicago; and one sister, Mrs. Emma Wolf of Forrester. One son died in infancy.

Y. M. C. A. Lecturer in Debate With Russians
Moscow, Aug. 23—(AP)—Sherwood Eddy, lecturer for the Y. M. C. A., who has been conducting a group of 20 or more tourists around Russia, debated publicly yesterday with Michael Reiter, professor of law in Moscow University, and with the editor of the bolshevik anti-religious publication "The Godless One," on the existence of God.

It was the first time that any foreigner was allowed to speak on such a subject in Soviet Russia.

Sec. Mellon Meets Big Bankers: No Significance
Evian, France, Aug. 23—(AP)—Benjamin Strong, governor of the Federal Reserve bank in New York, Seymour P. Gilbert, Jr., agent general for reparation payments, and Theodore Rousseau of the Guarantee Trust Company of Paris, left for Paris last night after several days in conference with Andrew W. Mellon, United States secretary of treasury.

Although on vacation Mr. Mellon found time to see a good deal of Sir Robert Horne, former British chancellor of the exchequer, who frequent-ly is almost daily in Mr. Mellon's office at the state department.

Mr. Mellon told The Associated Press that his conferences with financiers here had no significance.

Three Arrested North of Oregon Last Night
(Telegraph Special Service)
Oregon, Aug. 23—John Jones, Joe Anderson and Ralph Boucher, were arrested last evening about five miles north of Oregon by a county motorcycle officer. Jones, the driver of the car and his two passengers, all of Oregon, were brought to this city and locked up in the county jail.

The trio were taken into the county court this morning, Jones being charged with driving a car while in an intoxicated condition and the other two for being intoxicated. A quantity of liquor was also alleged to have been found in the car.

Mr. and Mrs. Earl Watts and son have returned home from a week's motor trip through Indiana.

SETTLEMENT NEAR MEXICAN CHURCH-STATE TROUBLES
Conference Between Calles and Church Heads "Satisfactory"

Mexico City, Aug. 23—(AP)—A settlement of the controversy between church and state seemed to be imminent today. Unless unforeseen obstacles are encountered it is likely that services in Catholic churches throughout the republic will be resumed soon.

A conference of Bishop Diaz of Tabasco, secretary of the Catholic episcopate, the Most Rev. Leopoldo Ruiz Flores, Archbishop of Michoacan, and President Calles at the Chapultepec palace was "truly satisfactory," says a statement by the episcopate.

The prelates were informed by President Calles that the requirement contained in the new religious regulations that priests should register with the government authorities was made purely for administrative purposes.

The episcopate has accepted this declaration and it is announced as soon as the churches have fulfilled the legal requirements there will be no further objection to resuming church services.

It is not the intention of the episcopate, however, to abandon its intention to seek through the new congress to have the religious clauses in the constitution amended so that the church may function unhindered by them.

SEVEN TRAMPS DEAD; FOUR SERIOUSLY HURT IN TRAIN WRECK AT WYANET SUNDAY

Burlington Freight is Piled Up When Bar Breaks on Truck

Wyand, Ill., Aug. 23—(AP)—Seven unauthorized train riders were killed and four others were injured when a Chicago, Burlington & Quincy freight was wrecked here yesterday. The injured men were taken to Princeton, awaiting identification.

Eighteen cars carrying perishable freight were thrown from the tracks, the wreck being caused, it was believed, by the breaking of an arch bar connecting the trucks of one of the cars. None of the train crew was injured.

The men killed and injured were tramps, all riding in one car. The four in the hospital are said to be near death. They have not been identified. More than 1,200 feet of double tracked right of way was ripped up.

Hundreds of laborers were soon on the scene from division points at Galesburg and Aurora.

One tank car containing molasses burst open, flooding the nearby land. The agent at Wyand narrowly escaped being struck by the wrecked section before it came to a halt.

OREGON BOY, DEAF MUTE, IS DROWNED

Met Death in River at That City Saturday While Fishing

(Telegraph Special Service)
Oregon, Aug. 23—The body of Edgar England, eight-year-old deaf mute, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward England of this city, was taken from Rock River near the city pumping station Saturday afternoon about 4 o'clock by searchers, who had spent the day dragging the river for the body. An inquest was conducted Saturday night and the funeral is being held this afternoon.

The boy, who was spending his vacation with his parents, was a student in the state school at Jacksonville, and went to Rock River Friday afternoon fishing. Late in the afternoon, a moored row boat in which the boy had been seen and a small pile of fishing tackle, led the family to believe that he had drowned.

Searching parties were formed and dragged through Friday night and until Saturday afternoon before the body was recovered. The boy was seen rowing very close to the power dam and was warned of the danger by others in that vicinity.

PERITONITIS CAUSED END IN NEW YORK

Suffered Relapse Following Operation Eight Days Ago

New York, Aug. 23—(AP)—Rudolph Valentino, original "sheik" of the movies, died today.

Death occurred at 12:10 o'clock eastern daylight time at the Poly-clinic hospital.

The screen star had been in the hospital for eight days and although he at first was reported in a critical condition, improvement had been shown during the latter part of last week and it was thought he had been safely on the road to recovery. Last night, however, he suffered a relapse due to pleurisy, which set in his left chest due to weakness following a double operation for acute appendicitis and gastric ulcers, and which was followed by peritonitis.

East to See Brother.
Valentino came east several weeks ago to attend the Broadway premiere of his latest picture and to bid farewell to his brother, who was returning to his home in Italy, and was taken ill.

After coming to his apartment here a week ago he was rushed to a hospital where an immediate operation was decided upon. Local peritonitis set in shortly after the operation and doctors announced that only his rugged constitution could save him from the dread infection becoming general, a condition which usually results in death. They said that the crisis would be passed in from 48 to 72 hours.

Valentino rallied and on Wednesday was reported out of danger, but further complications. The physicians ceased the regular issuance of bulletins regarding his condition. The statement that he had developed pleurisy followed the terse report of a relapse.

Visitors Were Barred.
Messages of sympathy of personal friends of the actor and "Fan" admirers flooded the hospital. Numbers of persons sought to gain entrance to his suite, but even closest friends were barred. Aside from S. George Ullman, his manager, who accompanied him to the hospital, no one but doctors and nurses was admitted to the sick room until last night when Joseph Schenck, head of the United Artists Film Corporation, was admitted for a brief farewell visit.

Gifts, ranging from flowers to holy water and religious relics, were sent him by hundreds of persons. The only statement made by the actor after he went to the hospital was one of thanks for the sympathy of his admirers.

Ex-Wives Solicitous.
During his illness both of Valentino's former wives, Jean Acker, screen star and Winifred Hudnut, a dancer, were especially solicitous as to his condition and Pola Negri, film star to whom he had been reported engaged, called frequently by telephone from Los Angeles.

The cause of the death was given officially as septic endocarditis, resulting from the double operation.

At the actor's bedside when he died were S. George Ullman, his manager; Father E. F. Leonard, rector of the Chapel of St. Malachi's, and Doctors H. D. Meeker, P. E. Ullman and G. R. Manning, his attending physicians.

Last rites of the Catholic church had been administered at 10 o'clock.

Los Angeles, Aug. 23—(AP)—From a brass polisher and a handcarved garbier to the heights of screen stardom was the stride by Rudolph Valentino, film-land's "perfect lover," in his 33-year span of life in the United States.

The movie sheik was born in the little Italian village of Castelloneta, May 6, 1895. His full-name was Rudolph Alfonso Raffaello Pierre Filiberto Guglielmi di Valentina D'Antonguella.

His mother was the daughter of a Parisian doctor, Pierre Filiberto Barbin. His father, Giovanni Guglielmi, was in his youth a captain of Italian

LOWDEN TOO BUSY TO SEEK SENATORIAL TOGA HE SAYS IN MESSAGE FROM THE EAST

"Under no circumstances could I consent to be a candidate for the senate if I am already fully occupied with work of public interest which I regard of more importance."

With these words Frank O. Lowden, of Oregon, former governor of Illinois, disposed of rumors that he might become an independent candidate for United States senator at the November election.

The statement was telegraphed from Colonel Lowden's summer home at Alexandria Bay, N. Y., to political friends in Chicago.

Friends Talk of Presidency.
Some of Mr. Lowden's friends believe he will be a strong candidate for the presidency in 1932 and they pointed out that he never would accept a senatorship, even if it did not entail embroiling himself in a factional dispute with Col. Smith.

Indian Dances Featured Entertainment by Young Campers

A number of visitors from Oregon, Rochelle, Mt. Morris and Dixon motored to the Boy Scout camp of Blackhawk Council at Franklin Creek Sunday afternoon and evening to visit the camp and in the evening enjoyed the camp fire built in true scout fashion.

Scoutmaster Larry Tibbitts led the Scouts and visitors in a number of songs which were much enjoyed, and then the Indian dances were given.

To the right of the fire stood the handsomely painted totem pole. Scout Executive Donald Cameron, dressed as an Indian chief, Chief Little Feather, with a beautiful headdress of white feathers, and bronzed and painted with long black hair and beads sang a number of Indian songs, opening with a beautiful solo. He then described or told the story of the Hunters' Dance, and Bus Smith, to the tune of the tom-tom, in Indian paint and dress, gave the Hunters' Dance, showing how the Indians were fashining and how the young son of the chief stalked a deer and killed it, in his first hunt.

Then the story of the Snake Dance was told and Chandler Sterling gave the dance showing how the savages tried to appease the anger of the snakes in this dance. Chandler was also dressed in Indian dress and paint.

The Snake Dance was given by Chief

STATE DEPARTMENT PLANS TO START WORK ON GREAT ROAD PROGRAM THIS FALL

About Twenty Miles of Old Issue Roads Now Unpaved

That all but twenty miles of roads included in the $50,000,000 Illinois road bond issue have been completed or contracts let for their construction is the announcement of the state highway department, which adds that the scattered stretches of highway that make up the 20 miles will be let before the end of September.

Assistant state highway engineer Benedict declares that the state is making every possible effort to close up the work provided for under the first bond issue in order to take up projects under the $100,000,000 bond program. Hearing on rights of way and other preliminary matters connected with the new program will be started in October, according to Mr. Benedict.

Governor Anxious
Engineer Benedict states that Governor Small is anxious to proceed as speedily as possible with the improvement of the highways under the $100,000,000 bond issue. He says that it is important that the people in the communities desiring early construction of pavement to get together in the matter of rights of way so there will be no squabbling, and consequent delays when the state is ready to start making surveys. The sooner the people arrive at a definite understanding and agreement in regard to the rights of way the sooner the roads will be improved, he said.

The first roads to be built will be those in the sections where there are no disputes, and according to Engineer Benedict it is the hope that grading and bridge construction on routes included in the $100,000,000 bond issue can be started as early as possible next spring.

Indians' Prayers for Rain Brought Near Cloudburst

Flagstaff, Ariz., Aug. 23—(AP)—Washes that seemed but harmless sand depressions in the desert as throngs of visitors hastened to the weird ceremonial of the Hopi Indians' snake dance Saturday became raging torrents a two hours after this year's prayers to the gods for rain were concluded.

As darkness descended Saturday bringing to a conclusion the weird rites, the clouds loosed a deluge, making the roads almost impassable.

With the coming of the rain the snake and antelope priests of the Hopi were rejoicing while thousands of visitors attempted to negotiate the flooded trails.

The dance is a prayer for rain and comes annually after eight days of preparation.

Sterling Legion Drum Corps Will Play Here

Sterling American Legion 40-piece Drum and Bugle Corps which will head the 13th District Delegation at the Illinois State Convention at Springfield on Sept. 13th and the Iowa State Convention on Sept. 14th at Clinton, Iowa, will make their initial appearance on the streets of Dixon next Thursday evening, about 7:30.

It is a huge undertaking to move this Drum and Bugle Corps to both State Legion Conventions and the primary object of their coming to Dixon is to advertise an Electric Frolic which the Sterling Legion is staging at Sterling, Ill., next Friday and Saturday nights.

Many local legionnaires will make the trip to Sterling and assist in making this affair a great success.

GREEK DICTATOR OVERTHROWN BY ARMY CORPORAL

Former President Put Back in Office by Coup Yesterday

BULLETIN
London, Aug. 23—(AP)—A dispatch to the Exchange Telegraph from Athens says the deposed President Pangalos has reached Athens and will be interned at military headquarters.

Athens, Aug. 23—(AP)—Greece has another dictator, Theodoros Pangalos has been overthrown in a bloodless coup and General Condylis, once a corporal in the Greek army, has taken over the government.

Moving as swiftly as did Pangalos, when last year he ousted Admiral Kondouriotis from the provisional presidency of Greece, General Condylis has Pangalos arrested Sunday. He was brought to Athens. All the ministers also were taken into custody.

Admiral Restored
Announcement is made by General Condylis, who was formerly minister of war, that Admiral Kondouriotis is the lawful president of Greece and that he has been invited to resume the presidency. It is the intention of General Condylis to organize a government of "national confidence."

All political leaders and officers who were arrested under the Pangalos regime, charged with conspiring

TELEGRAPHIC SERVICE FOR GOVT. PLANNED

Expansion Will be Urged by Director Lord Next Winter

Washington, D. C., Aug. 23—(AP)—Expansion of a federal telegraphic communication service, based on the system of the army and navy to provide free facilities for all federal agencies, including congress, is planned by the budget bureau.

A start in this direction was made a year ago and the plan has developed to such proportion, Director Lord has found that there are few federal establishments which do not make some use of the extensive communication systems operated by the war and navy departments.

At the next session of congress Mr. Lord intends to propose expansion of the scheme to include the handling of communication for members of congress. This will involve the leasing of some wires and the hire of telegraph operators.

Total combined savings and earnings of the navy communication service for the last year exclusive of the navy's own traffic and the aviation traffic for the army is estimated at $1,610,580.

Two Arraigned in Local Police Courts on Sunday

John Kenney was fined $2 and costs by Justice Martin J. Gannon in police court Sunday for driving his automobile through the streets with the cut out open. Tom Dailey, arrested by Officer Pomeroy on a charge of transporting and possessing intoxicating liquor, furnished bonds and his case was continued until Friday.

First and Second Street Pavement is Thrown Open

The new concrete on First and Second street from Madison to College avenues has been thrown open to traffic. The S. D. Hicks Construction Company, working many days ahead of their schedule in paving, has experienced several delays on account of the many recent rains. The big mixer is now engaged in pouring the West Third street concrete.

rapidly advanced until the overseas offered him the highest chair in the institution.

As president, the young Eliot set about so many reforms that Dr. Oliver Wendell Holmes exclaimed: "He is turning the university over like a flank." Forty years later when he resigned his post at his own insistence, he saw many of the reforms which he had introduced adopted throughout the country, and found himself so well established in the esteem of his countrymen that when President Taft offered him the post of ambassador to the Court of St. James, in March 1909, the press of the country was unanimous in applauding the choice as that of a most representative American citizen. But Dr. Eliot declined, saying that he preferred to spend the evening of his life in a serenity that only freedom from responsibility could give.

SONG—
In the evening, in the night,
Quiet sings her little song.
A song pellucid with delight,
A song that I can never sing...

In the night, and in the sky
Sorrow from of old is born,
And the tired earth and I
Sorrow for her wandering.

Menus for the Family

BY SISTER MARY.

BREAKFAST—Apple sauce, cereal cooked with dates, thin cream, crisp graham toast, milk, coffee.

LUNCHEON—Stuffed green peppers, bread and butter sandwiches, radishes, chilled watermelon, sponge cake, milk, tea.

DINNER—Jellied bouillon, rice loaf, boiled okra, watercress and cheese ball salad, junket ice cream, crisp cookies, milk, coffee.

This day's menu is planned for one of those days when it's just too hot to eat! However, the meals are interesting and appetizing enough to induce even the most languid to "sit up and take notice."

Okra is fresh in the markets and makes a delicious change from string beans and carrots. Choose tender pods and test by cutting a little.
Small pods are cooked whole but large ones are cut in half-inch slices.
A pound of okra measures a little over a quart and will serve six persons.

Boiled Okra.

One quart okra pods, ½ teaspoon salt, 1 tablespoon butter, ½ teaspoon pepper.

Wash pods well and carefully to avoid breaking. Cut off stems. Put into stew pan and pour over boiling water to cover. Simmer until tender, about 30 minutes. Let water cook away as much as possible without burning. Drain if necessary. Put into hot serving dish, sprinkle with salt and pepper and pour over butter melted. Put dish in a hot oven for five minutes to make very hot and serve.

Co., won by Ollie Starke, Dixon.

5x8 Flag, donated by the M. Chan-non Co., won by C. Downey, Freeport.

After the drawing contest Mr. E.
D. Alexander, Vice President, told of the company activities for the past year. He expressed the personal wish that these meetings held much of value for the employees and that all of them enjoyed the picnic.

The Charleston contest for children from 4 to 10 years old was won by Betty Merriman of Dixon and she received $1.00.

A very clever novelty stunt was put on by District B2 and C and a broadcasting station was reproduced.

Immediately after the program at the auditorium the dance hall at the Bluebird Inn was quickly filled with those who enjoy dancing. During the evening the Charleston contest was won by Mr. McConnell and Miss Emmerson of Belvidere. Mr. Mc-Connell received a pair of silk hose and Miss Emmerson received a compact.

The prize waltz was won by Mr.

get smart and try to economize. Herring for short and I did this. For instance, the desk clerk at our Nice hotel assured us that our room was 60 francs each per night. We said nothing, but left our baggage and went shopping for other rooms, finding any number of equally palatial ones for 50 francs total, or 30c each.
The next morning we asked for our bill, about to depart. We learned that "each" meant "both" in French style English. We swallowed our pride and tarried.

And yet again—dinner at the hotel was 25 francs. While strolling we had seen any number of 15 franc menus. We tried one. We couldn't decipher the bill or fare, so ordered lobster Americaine.

It proved to be cold lobster with mayonnaise. We asked to have one broyled. They broiled the cold boiled one and the bill was for both processes done to the one little lobster, 60 francs.

hind in France, also its garish striped wall paper, and enters the land of garlanded colored porcelain wash bowls, fleas and biting flies, yellow wall paper, Roman tiled floors, and prices a third higher.

But naught to complain of—palatial room, three meals a day, for $2.50 each.

A WOMAN'S ~DAY~ ABROAD

BY ALLENE SUMNER.

Rome, Italy.—Having discussed with some poetic abandon such spiritual subjects as flower markets, perfume factories and the disintegration of brides at Monte Carlo, we will now return to my favorite theme: How much does it cost?

Nor am I altogether to blame for this crass bent. Each mail brings a letter containing this classic line:
"And for heavens' sake tell us what it's costing! Can we possibly make it by next year?"

One learns from bitter experience only. Travelers who had done Italy told us in Paris that we would find things "ever so much cheaper in Italy."

We learned, however, that these same travelers were blithely paying their good 425 francs per day for room and breakfast where as we, in the shadow of the bedizened Eiffel Tower, were spending something like 15 francs each—it was 45 cents then —for the same necessities.

Our advice to all young men and women who would "go east, young man, go east," is—stay in France and live on nothing. For when you leave France you begin to stand it—maybe two dollars for a room. But when one has been accustomed to spending 30 cents, the change comes with difficulty.

Nor does it wait for Italy! In Avignon, for instance, quaint little town on the rushing Rhone which you read about in your Caesar pony, we paid $1.50. Recall, however, that your quoted hotel price in Europe is but the third of it, dearie! This year the conventional ten per cent for service is twelve or fifteen everywhere, and the cute little government stamps costing this and that litter the bills on all four corners.

And, though you pay your 15 per cent for service, a leering line of some trillion million servants line up with outstretched grimy palms as you leave.

They found a few hard nuts to

Why VELIE is called AMERICA'S LONG LIFE CAR

Mister Man! Have you driven the New Velie yet? If you have, you'll understand. If you haven't—do!
There's buoyant power, flashy pick-up and a silent smoothness with definite meaning. These things mean healthy, long-life!
Even the vibrationless mechanism, built into the motor, not attached later, is so simple that no complications can arise—added long life.

Velie talent doesn't pause with this achievement. It follows with full forced feed lubrication to drive a flow of oil between accurately machined parts, preventing actual contact and life-shortening wear. Idling, or traveling at 70 miles, the Velie motor has the same velvety, hushed action.

81% of all Velie cars built over the period of 18 years are still doing active service. For those who are aware of Velie quality, it is not surprising. To those who are not, it speaks convincing evidence.

Any Velie owner will gladly testify to the lasting qualities and long life of his car. Learn what he knows so well by an actual demonstration.

Whether you are interested in buying a washer or not makes no difference. Every woman who is interested in cleaner-washed, quicker-washed, easier-washed clothes should know herself how much more the Maytag does than other washers!

And we know that if you actually see what the Maytag will do—how much more and better it will wash—you will be interested—you will tell your friends about the Maytag and do both them and us a favor. So phone now.

Remember, there is no expense—no

RADIO REGULATION.

Radio interests may solve their own troubles by beating congress to a plan of control. The difficulty will be that when the legislators reassemble they will want to take over the regulation, regardless of what the men interested in the business have worked out as a result of congressional neglect.

It is a sign of better things when a radio interests at least try to reach an agreement that will avoid troubles into which the business seemed for a time to be falling as a result of lack of federal power and a disposition of some elements to defy all others.

Events leading up to the present situation were substantially as follows. Wireless telegraphy at first seemed to be ocean service, and in congress it was in the hands of the committees on marine and fisheries. When the department of commerce was established it was given such control over radio at the executive had the right to administer. Suddenly radio no longer was wireless telegraphy, but was a system of broadcasting in which the whole world might participate, instead of limitation to use by commercial telegraph companies or amateurs using codes.

The secretary of commerce assumed jurisdiction of the situation and assigned wave lengths to broadcasting stations. That system served the purpose until his authority was questioned and the supreme court held that he was without jurisdiction. That left the field open for any station to seize the privileges previously accorded to some other station.

Congress was in session, but it split on the question of whether the control should be placed in the department of commerce or in hands of a commission. Perhaps if any other man except Herbert Hoover were secretary of commerce, there would not have been such a division of sentiment, but it is admitted that there is fear of Hoover as a presidential prospect, and some political leaders do not want him to have control of the radio. Anyhow congress adjourned without action, leaving the radio world governed only by a joint resolution limiting the length of permits to be issued by the secretary of commerce.

Immediately there was a disposition to jump the fences, but with first impulses over there has come an effort to stabilize the business from within; to establish such unofficial government as has been adopted by professional baseball leagues and by the motion picture industry.

To this end a call has been issued for a convention of representatives of the radio section of the Associated Manufacturers of Electrical Supplies, the broadcasting committee of the same association, the National Radio Protective committee, the Radio Manufacturers' association, the National Association of Broadcasters, and the American Radio Relay league.

It is apparent to these interests that failure to bring order out of chaos will give to listeners a Babel of tongues and will be damaging to the entire industry.

How serious are matters of disagreement among stations and organizations will be apparent when the representatives of these various bodies assemble in convention. If they can dispose of their differences, they will be in better position than if they wait for congress to solve the problem. However, it is not probable that they can escape government regulation, as in the future it probably will be as important that there shall be no interruption of the mails.

A STORY OF A GIRL OF TODAY

AN UNDERSTANDING

I could not tell whether Mr. Robinson was angry or frightened, but the blood rushed to his face until it was fairly purple. I knew, however, that he understood by the questions that I had said nothing to Joan and would not do so unless he drove me to it. As far as I was concerned the episode was closed. After slight hesitation he said:

"Yes, I found the bottle, and I surmised that it was you who left it there. Thank you, very much."

I was sure by the way he spoke that he knew I never would betray him in any way to his stepdaughter.

The door opened into the drawing room and entering I was very much surprised to find John Meredith already standing near the mantel. He must have come in through one of the long French windows, for we had been standing in the hallway.

"Hello, John," said Mr. Robinson, casually.

"Hello, Dad," answered John Meredith just as impersonally.

"What brought you here to the city, where you have not been for so many years?" his stepfather inquired.

"I wanted to be present at the settlement of Joan's and my estate, which was to be made today."

"Are you sure it's today, John. I'm certain that Elkins has forgotten it. Did he send you a notice?" asked Mr. Robinson with assumed surprise.

"No, Dad, I didn't get any notice, and I expect I would not have."

thought of it myself, as everything seems to be going on so well, if Sympington had not called upon me for money to start the expedition, which I am financing."

"Well, I'm sorry to disappoint you, my boy, but I'm sure the work cannot be done today. Elkins will not be able to come. He has been very ill."

"That's all right, Mr. Robinson," I broke in. "Both Elkins, Sr. and Jr., are going to be here. I'm expecting them any minute. That was all arranged by telephone this morning. Mr. Josiah Elkins is feeling quite well today and he thought the drive would do him good. He said that with what small help he could give him, his son had been working on the papers for a long time and the were practically finished."

"You certainly have been on the job already as business manager, Miss Dean," said Mr. Robinson, with a smile that was a cross between admiration and sneer.

I did not think it was necessary to tell him that Jerry had found it all out for me through his father, who was also a client of the Elkins. I merely contented myself with a nod.

My eyes strayed again to John Meredith. This time I caught an expression on his face which was entirely different from any I had ever seen there before. It was one of interest and appreciation. I would at most say that he had received a distinct thrill. As soon, however, as he caught my eye his face settled back again into its sad indifference.

Elkins, father and son, were announced, and we proceeded to seat ourselves.

CLAYBAUGH SEEKS AID OF BUSINESS MEN OF ILLINOIS

New Chief of the Parole Board Has Plan to Better Service

BY LESTER B. COLBY
Illinois Chamber of Commerce
Hinton G. Claybaugh is very jealous of two things that have gone into his life's record. One is that he has always "toted fair." The other is that he has never taken an off-color dime. I know that one time when a powerful organization brought pressure upon him to gain official favors he replied:

"Money doesn't have to pass, there are other forms of graft."
And it wasn't done.
I know that Hinton G. Claybaugh, the new head of the Illinois Prison parole board, sighed a sigh of relief when he stepped out of government service. I know he didn't want to go back to anything like it. I know that Governor Small had to do some powerful pleading to get him into this sort of work again.

Not in Politics.
There is no politics in this series of articles. I would not write them if I thought politics might be suspected. The Illinois Chamber of Commerce is not in politics. Mr. Claybaugh is not in politics. If when this series is done any reader can judge, by reading, whether I am for or against Len Small, it will be my belief that I have failed in my motive.

But one purpose enters here—to serve Illinois.
When Gov. Small and Mr. Claybaugh sat down to discuss the position, the latter told the governor that under no conditions would he consider the post. They talked for three hours. I do not know all they said and the following may be considered only a brief summary of the conversation.

Though I use quotations I do not mean that what I present is verbatim. It is merely the meat in the nut, a skeleton of what they said.
Didn't Want Job.

"Please don't ask me to do this," said Mr. Claybaugh. "I've served my time, sixteen years with the government. They were hard years; years of sacrifice. The pay was little, not enough to get along on. I'm just getting on my feet. I owe something to my family. Get someone else."

"But you know the business. You understand. I've looked everywhere and all the trails lead to you. You are the man," was the governor's reply. And then Gov. Small went into the charges that had been made against his office, the bitterness, the heartbreak of it and he ended up with:

"There may be reasons why some were afraid to make the facts known in some cases for which I was blamed. I'm no longer young. I need help. Illinois needs help. The situation is critical. My enemies howl and my friends are afraid. I have come to realize that, after all, I am responsible for the acts of my appointees."

And then the governor uttered the classic plea that brought action from Claybaugh. It was:

Governor's Argument.
"People hold me accountable for the evils that have grown up. If I go to men like you, who could help me remedy them, men I can trust, and you turn me down, one after the other, then can you hold me, the governor, to blame?"

"That is the only argument you have given me that makes me stop and think," replied Mr. Claybaugh. "I'll consider it."

Claybaugh advised with his friends. Almost with one accord, they pointed out the grief, the unending grief.

"I've been through grief before," he replied.

The newspapers got hold of the story. They pointed out that it was a

World's Champion at Aurora Fair

Visitors to the fifth annual Central State Fair and Exposition at Aurora, August 27 to September 4, will not only see the biggest cattle show on any fair grounds in America, but will have the opportunity of seeing King of the Fairies, shown above, grand champion Shorthorn bull at the International Live Stock show last year. The bull was formerly owned by the Prince of Wales. The present owner is Frank C. Baker, of Kansas City, a wealthy grain dealer.

hard and difficult job but not one of them in any way cast doubt upon Claybaugh's integrity.

"If one of them had, I think I'd have turned the job down," he told me. "I wouldn't think of taking it if rocks were thrown in my path. I wouldn't touch it if politics entered. I told Gov. Small plainly, that I know none of his political friends; that I would have nothing to do with anything political."

Not Political Job.
"This is not a political job," said Gov. Small. And right there he made his pledge that any political office holder in the state who interfered would be discharged if it is in the governor's power to discharge him. He said this is a job involving liberty of human beings and the protection of society. "I will not embarrass you by even asking you your politics," he added.

Governor Small went to Samuel Insull, Mr. Claybaugh's employer. They held conference. Mr. Insull called Mr. Claybaugh in and they went over it together. They talked of the trouble and grief it would bring.

"What is your reaction to it?" asked Mr. Insull.
"All worth-while jobs bring grief," said Mr. Claybaugh. "I've had plenty of it. I know what it is."

Then Mr. Insull shook his hand and told him to go to it and God bless him. He also said that Mr. Claybaugh's position would be waiting for him when he came back. He advised him to take it as a public duty and an important public service.

"I'll be at the job two and a half years. That's all, no more," said Mr. Claybaugh to me.

In writing this article I am not representing Mr. Claybaugh as a friend. Though I saw him often during the war, almost every day for many months, it was all business. Until I shook his hand the other night, I had not spoken to him or seen him since the late 1918, nearly eight years ago, just after the World War closed and our paths ceased to cross.

I am representing the Illinois Chamber of Commerce and the people of Illinois. I have come into this picture now to serve a purpose. Hinton G. Claybaugh has a request to ask of the people of Illinois. He wants organized business men to take places in the firing line for the enforcement of law.

He is by nature an organizer. Responsible men in Cairo and Rockford, in Quincy and Danville and all of the cities and towns between are to be asked to take part in the orderly reconstruction of the forces of the law in the state.

I have told about Hinton G. Claybaugh, pictured his personality, so that the honest citizenry of Illinois may know the type of man who is asking them to rally in the name of the law. The Illinois Chamber of Commerce is being used as a mouth-piece because it is non-political and has no ax to grind.

(A plan will be outlined soon which will show how you, if you are a good citizen, may be asked to play a part in this work to save the honor of Illinois.)

Champion Bull to Show at Aurora

King of the Fairies, Formerly Owned by Prince of Wales, Will Be Shown.

A leading feature of the live stock show at the Central States Fair and Exposition, August 27 to September 4, will be the exhibition in the show ring of the great shorthorn bull, King of the Fairies, bred by H. R. H. the Prince of Wales, on his noted farm in England. It was exported to Canada for use on the Alberta farm of the prince, and is now the property of Frank C. Baker, wealthy grain operator of Kansas City.

King of the Fairies has been considered so valuable as a sire that he has not been shown extensively, yet his show record is remarkable. In Canada he was shown at Calgary, Edmonton, Saskatoon, Regina, Lethbridge, and at the Canadian Royal show at Toronto. In the United States he has been shown only at the International live stock show, America's greatest exhibition of cattle.

This great sire won not only first prize in his class, but the grand championship at every one of these exhibitions. To further emphasize the significance of the victories, it might be added that the judges who awarded the honors are men recognized as the most expert of their day. Among them are Frank W. Harding, general executive of the American Shorthorn Breeders' association; R. A. Wright, Charles Yule, Robert Miller, all of Canada, and L. P. Duncan, famous breeder and exporter of Scotland.

That King of the Fairies inherited his great merit from equally notorious ancestors may be inferred when it is known that he is closely related to the famous bull, King Christian, for whom the Prince of Wales refused $40,000, and his dam is the noted cow, Sherbourne Fairy Fourth, for which the Prince paid $5,000.

Mr. Baker tried for two years to purchase the great prize winner. But not before the Canadian ranch of the prince was stocked with thirty or forty of his daughters, and several of his sons, would Professor Carlyle, the manager, consent to a sale.

The question in every stockman's mind is, can the King of the Fairies be beaten? He will be called upon to face the strongest sort of competition at the Central States Fair and Exposition. Harry Hopley of Iowa, one of the nation's largest producers of beef cattle, noted breeder, and showman, will be the judge. His decision is awaited with keen interest throughout America and Britain.

THE OL' WELL

It stands behind the old red barn, a landmark on the place. There's muck along its lining, and there's moss upon its face. How many years it's stood there. Say, I wonder who can tell. But then, no matter—anyway, it's served its purpose well.

The creaky swinging handle's turned a million times or more. A bucket that is rusty let's a sea of water pour. It's meant a deal of pleasure to all comers, from the first. Its task, in fullest measure, is aquenchin' people's thirst.

A hundred bricks were gathered in the days long since gone by. They circled round a water hole that never would run dry. A wooden bucket topped them, and a rope was raveled loose, and one of nature's drinking spots was ably put to use.

Yea, folk have come and folk have gone, but first they've had their treat at sippin' cooling water. Is there anything as sweet? Say, when you're near the farmhouse, never pass the pleasure by. Just call upon the grand ol' well—and tip the bucket high.

FRANKIE FRISCH SUSPENDED FOR DESERTING TEAM

While Giants Dropped Another to Cards; Bush Won Again

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
St. Louis was only a trifle behind Pittsburgh today for the lead of the National League. St. Louis won its eighth straight yesterday behind Jess Haines' excellent marksmanship. The Frischless Giants were the victims 4 to 2 and Travis Jackson, who has succeeded Frankie as captain, contributed a brace of errors. Four place decimals were necessary to tell Pittsburgh's lead. Manager McGraw has suspended Frisch indefinitely. "I did not desert and have not quit baseball," he said. "I haven't been feeling well lately and want to take a rest to regain my health. "I didn't have any run in with McGraw over playing third; I've played there before."

Bush Going Strong.
Chicago's Cubs and Guy Bush also accomplished some record baseball. The team turned in 23 assists in beating Brooklyn 3 to 0, and Bush pitched his 21st successive scoreless inning. He has allowed only 9 hits in his last 27 frames.

The Pirates played a semi-professional team in Akron and were held hitless and runless by one Charley Ketchum. They were beaten 6 to 0. "Big Moose" Clabaugh of Tyler, in the East Texas league, hit his first home run of the season, bettering the record of Tony Lazzeri, now with the Yankees, when he was with Salt Lake City. Babe Ruth leads the American league in circuit drives with 39 and Hack Wilson of Chicago the National with 18.

Philadelphia has gained a new prominence in sports with a heavy-weight boxing bout added to its Sesqui-Centennial celebration with a baseball game played on Sunday without police interference. According to Connie Mack there will be no more Sunday baseball this season because of schedule difficulties but that of yesterday when his team defeated the Chicago White Sox 3 to 2 was a success.

Cleveland's Indians, heading for New York for another crucial series with the Yankees stopped long enough at the National capitol to down the Senators twice 10 to 2 and 6 to 0.

Four singles in the seventh gave the White Sox only one run.

McWeeny intentionally passed Hack Wilson, slugging Cub outfielder, in the big eighth inning but the strategy failed as Hack scored the third run on a wild peg to the plate.

Guy Bush, Cub hurler, allowed the Robins only four hits and giving only two passes over the full route.

"Bucky Harris, manager of the Senators, used four pitchers against Cleveland but was unable to take either contest, giving the Indians a good start before their crucial series with New York.

A 4 to 2 victory for St. Louis over the Giants gave the Cardinals their eighth straight victory. They are now neck and neck with the Pirates.

GREATEST FIGHT SHOW PLANNED IN CHICAGO FRIDAY

High Class Bouts Will Be Staged in White Sox Ball Park

The greatest boxing show ever staged anywhere at the popular prices in force, is being presented at the White Sox Ball Park, Chicago, Friday night, August 27th, when Promoter John J. O'Keefe will show Charley Phil Rosenberg, bantamweight champion of the world against Pete Sarmiento, Filipino bantam star in a ten round heading an all-star cast of four ten round bouts.

Rosenberg is fighting to a decision and it is the first time in years any champion of the world fought to a decision at the prices in vogue for Friday's show. Pete Sarmiento will make Rosenberg fight every minute.

The Filipino sensation has always been known as the greatest crowd pleaser in the business. He doesn't depend on a display of boxing to win his fights but mixes from the first bell to the last. Seldom does the little bronze battler clinch. He is too busy shooting lefts and rights to hold and anytime he goes to bat the fans see a fight.

The champion is in for a busy evening. He can fight and is smart and fans here are looking forward to one of the best battles in years when these two great boys get together.

Tommy White, of El Paso, Texas, the conqueror of Pinky Mitchell, makes his first Chicago start against Edwin Bice of Omaha, Nebraska, the conqueror of Ace Hudkins. White has boxed the best of them and Bice, who is a star member of the famous Lee P. Flynn stable of topnotch fighters, has a great record as a knockout artist. He has just piled up a string of five straight K.O.'s his latest victim being Joe Tiplitz, who didn't last one round with the Nebraska.

Clyde Hall, Texas Tornado, who stopped the Australian champion, Leo Wax at the Cubs Park recently, is matched to battle Floyd Hybert, Cleveland sensation, who knocked out

Johnny Mandelsohn of Milwaukee last Thursday night and who has beaten such high class boxers as Jimmy Finley and other members of the first rank.

Fred "Bokey" Saab, newest star from the south, known as the Berlenbach of Dixie, will meet Teddy Gartin of Denver in the fourth ten rounder. Saab was quite a sensation in the south last winter, winning most of his fights by K. O.'s. Teddy Gartin is the boy who gave Shuffie Callahan two great fights last winter, winning the second engagement.

Prices for this show are one, two, three and five dollars, plus tax. Out of town reservations will be cared for by sending certified check or money order to Mullen's Loop Gym ticket office, 180 W. Randolph St., Chicago. Seats are now on sale and from present indications one of the biggest crowds that ever witnessed a boxing show here will be on hand Friday night. All the boxers on the card are in Chicago and training hard for Friday's engagements. The Sox Park will be illuminated well, in the same manner as the Cubs Park was for the show on Aug. 13th. The first bout will start at 8:15 P. M.

Tunney Likes Quiet of Training Camp in N. Y.

Speculator, N. Y., Aug. 23.—(AP)—Gene Tunney has quiet in quantity as he trains for his bout with Jack Dempsey. The nearest railway is 30 miles away and the nearest telegraph key 50 miles.

Tunney will leave with regret, for he likes quiet. There are roads in plenty for running and Lake Pleasant, a well named body of water, offering opportunity for rowing.

An Adirondack guide pilots Tunney on long canoe trips.

All Sales Records for French Race Meet Broken

Deauville, France, Aug. 23.—(AP)—R. B. Strassburger, whose colt Astero yesterday won the Deauville grand prize, has been one of the most liberal bidders for yearlings this season.

A dozen youngsters have been knocked down to him for a total of 1,831,000 francs.

Sales totaled 56,000,000 francs, breaking all records.

130,000 Tickets to Be Printed for Bout

Philadelphia, Aug. 23.—(AP)—Orders for 130,000 tickets for the Dempsey-Tunney heavyweight championship bout September 23 have been placed with the printers and it is expected they will be placed on sale before the end of the week. The advance sale exceeds $200,000.

Although Dempsey is understood to have decided on finishing his training at Atlantic City, exposition officials are hoping they can persuade him to establish his camp here. Tunney's new camp site has not been announced.

Dempsey, Tex Rickard and Billy Gibson, Tunney's manager, had engagements today as guests of Mayor Kendrick and exposition officials.

Elgin Pitcher Twirls No Run, No Hit Game

Elgin, Ill., Aug. 23.—(AP)—Joel Miller, hurler for the Elgin-Dundee nine pitched a no-hit no-run game against the Sycamore Stars yesterday, the local nine winning 2 to 0. Only thirty batters faced Miller and he retired 13 over the strikeout route.

DON JUAN

Novel by INEZ
SABASTIAN

Copyright, 1926, Warner Bros. Pictures, Inc.
"Don Juan," screen play by Bess Meredyth, starring John Barrymore, is a Warner Bros. picturization of this novel.

SYNOPSIS

Don Juan's disillusioned father had warned him: "Destroy women or they will destroy you; take their love scornfully—and forget!" This advice has made Juan the greatest lover of all time. But his cynicism is suddenly checked by the disarming innocence of Madonna-like Adriana Varanes. Loving her madly, he reforms. The affair is dangerous because infamous Lucretia Borgia loves Juan, who, in turn, loves her kinsman, Countess Adriana. The Borgias capture Duke Varanes, Adriana's father. To save his life she agrees to marry Donat. Lucretia Borgia visits Juan, but he spurns her.

"The wisest man is easiest to deceive," she told him, sweeping bow. He made her low, sweeping bow, a bow which would have expressed all gallantry, all admiration, had he not exaggerated it just enough to make it an absurd mockery of what it might have been. Her cheeks flamed as she stood watching him. He could make sport of her, of Lucretia Borgia, and before his servant, who no doubt was tittering there in the shadows beyond the candle's flickering light! Oh, he should pay for this—she would summon Nerl, the poisoner, and bid him devise some far worse death than ever yet had sent an enemy of the Borgias writhing on his way to hell!

And yet—yet how could she do that? How could she, when her hands fairly ached to touch that dark, sleek head, when she asked nothing better of life than she might spend the rest of it with him?

With bitterness in her heart, she forced herself to play out the role she had assumed. It was her only that he would refuse to buy his own life from Cesare at so hideous a price, and that his imprisonment or death would swiftly follow. She did not dare let her thoughts rest on Don Juan, because love for him welled up so overwhelmingly in her heart that she felt she could not bear it. And when she remembered, even as her eyes grew misty at the thought of him, that never again would he kneel at her feet and press his lips to the palm of her hand, that she must not see him again—then her lovely head went down on her knees and she sobbed as if her heart would break. She sat up, brushed the hair back from her forehead with the back of her hand, tried to think. She must accept this new life that had been thrust upon her. Must marry Donat, as Cesare Borgia had decreed. And because she was a Varanes, there could be no hope that anything but death would end such an alliance.

Otherwise, something might have been arranged. Rina, her maid, had been trying to console her by making plans. Adriana might wed Donat, said Rina, and then, quite soon, Varanes and his daughter could escape from Rome—and perhaps the handsome young Spaniard would just by chance leave the city also, and find his way to the same place!

Rina had smiled significantly over that suggestion, had tried valiantly to make her young mistress smile also. But Adriana had refused even to consider such a thing. There could be no way out.

In the corridor there were servants, crowding together, talking in muffled tones. They were too terrified to go to bed. Rina was there with them. Adriana knew. Suddenly she sat up straight in bed. Rina had screamed. One of

"Please—please go!" she begged.

chance of winning him, and though she hated it, she must play it to the end.

Juan had turned away from her deliberately, almost insultingly. Never before had any man turned from her in such a manner.

He motioned for Pedrillo to carry out whatever wishes she might express, as he might have ordered the servant to attend the most unimportant guest. He was striding toward the outer door when Lucretia called to him. The sound of her own voice startled her, so strained was it, so forced.

"Rome is laughing at you," she told him, mockingly. "And when you have learned what all the city knows, and long has known, come to me—perhaps I shall forgive you."

He turned then to face her. His eyes narrowed; he caught his breath sharply. Then suddenly he laughed, and she realized that he saw through her pretenses, knew how she loved him, how gladly she would have given up the world for him.

"Perhaps I shall come," he retorted, and was gone.

And Lucretia stood smiling, a curious smile, fed by her hatred of Adriana, and her assurance that Juan would be disillusioned about the girl. He was playing into her hands. Now she had only to wait, and see him come back to her, admitting that he had been wrong, she told herself.

And yet—would he come?

CHAPTER VIII

Adriana sat huddled down in the middle of her beautiful, carved bed, staring up at the star-sprinkled blue ceiling, trying to believe that she was the girl who had awakened in that room so many happy mornings.

She could not believe the ghastly events of the evening. Her father torn from her, dragged away by Cesare Borgia and Donat to the Vatican—perhaps. Perhaps to the prison of San Angelo, that great, forbidding building whose rounded side rose above the Tiber. It might be true that he had been taken away merely to sign the agreement that would confirm his consent to her marrying Donat—but knowing how he would hate doing that, she feared that there would be trouble.

DAILY POEM

Consider the moon and the stars, and the sun, and the air that is whipped into breeze. Consider the real work that nature has done, through the grass, through the shrubs, through the trees. Just think of the freshness that comes with the showers that occur so that green things may grow. Just think of the beauty of numerous flowers that wait their perfume as they blow. Be watchful of butterflies, sailing through air, and list to the song-bird, in tune. Step into the open. The thrill that is there, gets into your heart, pretty soon. Consider the world that you live in today. Therein lies the wealth we've all got. Just stand beneath the blue sky, with feelings at play. And say, that's real freedom, eh, what?

The VANITY CASE

by CAROLYN WELLS

©1926 by G. P. PUTNAM SONS

Aunt is fairly astute in her judgments.

"You bet you are, Aunt Em! Now I'm going to fly at this thing, and if I can't get at the truth of the business, I know somebody who can."

"Who?"

"A friend of mine—a regular detective feller. But I'm going to have a whack myself, first. You see, I've got a hunch!"

"I'm not deeply impressed by that news, Todhunter. I can't think you know a hunch when you see one! If you know a really good detective, you'd better get hold of him than to follow your own silly hunches!"

"I like your pleasant frankness, Auntie, and I believe you're pretty darned near right! But I do want to look into one side of the matter first, and if that doesn't pan out anything, I'll yell for Truitt. That's my friend, Steve Truitt."

"I've heard of him. He's rather celebrated."

"Yes, though he's a young chap. We were college chums, and he's as bright as they come. Well, Auntie, here's my hunch. I think Iman killed the lady. And I think he did it because he wanted her money. And I think he was not in love with her—no, not by a means—but I think she was in love with him, and he wanted the life out of him. I think he is in love with Bunny—who could help it? And so my hunch is that he killed her. He just got mad and—perhaps unintentionally—I mean, unpremeditatedly, let fly the bottle, and it did for her."

"Ingenious enough, Tod, but nothing to back up such a theory."

"Oh, I don't know!" said her nephew, airily, and went off by himself to think things over.

Strolling about his aunt's grounds, he drifted over to the Heath house, and found Larry Inman alone on a veranda.

"Hello," Inman said, "take a seat and sit down."

"Care if I ask you some questions?" Tod said, with a straight-forward glance at the other.

"Wish you would. I say, I'm up against it—have you any ideas?"

Buck looked at him, curiously.

"Nothing but," he returned, "haven't you?"

"Yap, but they're all no good. Say, I'm told you have a detective instinct—I believe that's the technical term—can't you ferret out who killed my cousin?"

"Didn't you?"

"Buck shot out the words with such clear-cut emphasis and assured intent, that Inman, instead of showing any resentment, merely replied, "No, I didn't do it."

Suddenly Todhunter Buck's heart fell.

He couldn't have explained it himself, but there was something about Inman's plain statement that carried conviction—a deep conviction—that he was telling the simple truth.

But, "Who did then?" was all he said.

"You're in love with Miss Moore?" Inman asked, quietly, and Tod, having suddenly taken a liking to this calm person, replied, "Yes."

"Then, I'll tell you of the danger she's in. For I'm hoping you can help me to help her."

"You know something?" Buck exclaimed, with a flash of his aunt's sort of intuition.

"Yes, this. I heard a sound on the stairs that night at half past one o'clock, and I opened my door just a crack, and I saw Bunny coming up, with her vanity case in her hand, and looking as white as death, and trembling like a leaf."

"And then?"

"Then, after a few moments, I went downstairs, and found Myra dead in the studio. The candles burning at her head and feet—and, Buck—when I felt her outstretched arm—it was still warm!"

Where Did She Get That Graceful Figure?

How "TIZ" HELPS SORE, TIRED FEET

Good-bye, sore feet, burning feet, swollen feet, sweaty feet, smelly feet, tired feet.

Good-bye corns, callouses, bunions and raw spots. No more shoe tightness, no more limping with pain or drawing up your face in agony. "Tiz" draws out all the poisonous exudations which puff up the feet. Use "Tiz" and forget your foot misery. Ah! how comfortable your feet feel. Get a box of "Tiz" now at any drug or department store. Don't suffer. Have good feet, glad feet, feet that never swell, never hurt, never get tired. A year's foot comfort guaranteed for a few cents.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE CHURCHES

"MIND" was the subject of the Lesson Sermon in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, Sunday, August 22.

The Golden Text was from Isaiah 26:3, "Thou wilt keep him in perfect peace, whose mind is stayed on thee: because he trusteth in thee."

Among the citations which comprised the Lesson-Sermon was the following from the Bible: "O the depth of the riches both of the wisdom and knowledge of God! how unsearchable are his judgments, and his ways past finding out! For who hath known the mind of the Lord? or who hath been his counsellor? For of him, and through him, and to him, are all things: to whom be glory for ever" (Romans 11:33, 34, 36).

The Lesson-Sermon also included the following passage from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy: "Divine metaphysics, as revealed to spiritual understanding, shows clearly that all is Mind, and that Mind is God, omnipotence, omnipresence, omniscience,—that is, all power, all presence, all Science. Hence all is in reality the manifestation of Mind" (p. 275).

SHIELDS OF ALL NATIONS LEAD FIVE-MILE TRAIL TO THE SESQUI

Through the "Way of Shields," through the old world into the new, go the visitors who join in the 150th birthday celebration of our nation, the Sesqui-Centennial Exposition now in progress at Philadelphia.

For five miles, from the intersection of Chestnut and Broad Streets, through the city, through the Navy Yard Reservation, to the gateway of the exposition, Broad Street is lined on either side by the shields of the nations of the world. More than a thousand shields, each 3 1/2 feet high, representing every nation in both hemispheres, mark a gala trail of the brilliant, flashing color through the city.

This beautiful Avenue of the Nations is literally a glowing tribute to the old world nations who have sent their men and women to the United States, to become the bulwark upon which has been built up in a brief century and a half, the prosperous and progressive U. S. A.

It is an interesting commentary upon the prowess of these United States in arts and industries, that these battle shields, representing old ideals, old feuds, and old arts, are made of a brand new, wholly American product, celotex, a lumber created out of sugar cane fibres. It was selected for this purpose by the landscape decorators who designed and carried out the magnificent plan of the Exposition because it is weather proof, and because it can be decorated in lasting colors, which will retain their bright hues during the life of the exposition.

the
BOSS OF THE ROAD

IT IS most fitting in this, Packard's second quarter century of fine motor car building, that Packard announce—
The Greatest Car Ever Built.

You may expect the improved Packard Eight to out-perform any stock car in the world—in everything from agility to top speed on the open road. This is the conservative statement of a conservative company.

Today's Packard Eight is the supreme combination of beauty, of brawn, and of fleetness.

It is the fulfillment of an unchanging and uninterrupted ambition—a generation-old ideal—to be the first to build a motor car balanced in every attribute.

In the improved Packard Eight no one thing has been developed at the expense of any other.

Everything from rough-road comfort to closed-car miles in less than 45 seconds is in perfect accord.

And in grace, the eleven-time winner of International Car Beauty Contests now presents even more alluring lines.

The standard models are slender and symmetrical, divan-like in luxurious comfort, and may be had in a multitude of color and upholstery selections.

For those who want the utmost in individuality, a distinguished line of custom bodies is available—each the genuine creation of a famous builder.

And now, another conservative statement—no matter what you have hoped for in a motor car, your hopes, individually and collectively, will be found surpassed in today's Packard Eight—

Boss of the Road and Beauty of the Boulevard.

You are cordially invited to view and ride in—

The Greatest Car in the World
